Philadelphia, PA (August 15, 2024) – Manko, Gold, Katcher & Fox, LLP (MGKF), an environmental, litigation, energy, and land use law firm is pleased to announce that Wesley Stevenson has joined the firm as an associate. Wes regularly represents clients in environmental litigation and assists with regulatory compliance and enforcement issues across environment media, with a particular focus on air. Wes's complex litigation experience includes cost recovery and contribution actions under CERCLA, air permitting proceedings, and regulatory litigation. Wes also works closely with clients managing environmental crises and helps them to assess and mitigate associated litigation risks.

Wes graduated magna cum laude from Temple University Beasley School of Law. During law school, Wes served as a Staff Editor of the Temple Law Review and earned distinguished class performance notations in several courses, including legal writing, administrative law, criminal law, torts, contracts, conflicts of law, evidence, civil procedure, and environmental law. Wes also led successful efforts to end the City of Philadelphia's practice of charging parents for incarcerating their own children. This effort drew national news coverage, the 2017 Clinical Legal Education Association National Award for Excellence in a Public Interest Project, and a citation from the Philadelphia City Council.

Wes served as a law clerk to the Honorable Cathy Bissoon of the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania from 2018 to 2020. Prior to college, Wes worked for two years as an AmeriCorps corps member and team leader with City Year, Inc., primarily supporting literacy efforts in elementary schools in Chicago, IL and Washington, DC.

Wes was a summer associate with the firm in 2015 and returns to Manko after practicing environmental law at a large Philadelphia firm.
